Mini Folk Festival

Saturday, September 30th @ Sunday, October 1st

Come on over to the Cotuit Library to sample some great music at our Mini Folk Festival! We've lined up some amazing musicians to come perform for you over the course of a weekend, and it'll be a weekend you don't want to miss! Free music for the family to enjoy! Our Mini Folk Festival is part of our Royston Nash Music Appreciation Series, supported in part by the Arts Foundation of Cape Cod, the Mid Cape Cultural Council, and the Kirkman Trust.

Davis Bates: Saturday 4:00 – 5:00 PM

Davis has been singing and telling stories for over thirty-eight years (longer according to his mom), in schools, libraries, and community settings around New England and across the country. Folk traditions legend Pete Seeger has inspired his work and has, in turn, called Davis "thoughtful, creative, human, and a fantastic storyteller"; Davis' traditional and participatory style of telling empowers and encourages audiences of all ages to take the stories home with them to share with others, whether he is relating an age old international folktale, or a story about his grandparents. His songs have very singing choruses, which he teaches to his audiences, and are often accompanied by spoons or a dancing wooden lumberjack dog named Bingo.

Still Willow: Sunday 5:30 – 6:30 PM

Still Willow is the mostly acoustic singer-songwriter duo of Kim Moberg and Ric Allendorf, who share the role of vocals, instrumentation, and songwriting. Musically, Still Willow is influenced by a variety of genres including Folk, Americana, and a myriad of singer-songwriters both old and new. Their original music expresses a sensitivity to personal themes made universal; love, loss, renewal, and celebration. And their carefully interpreted cover songs take a path through a personal connection that honors the source material, re-aligned to Kim and Ric's life experiences. (www.stillwillowmusic.com/bio)

Sparrow Blue: Sunday 7:00 – 8:00 PM

Sparrow Blue, Acoustic Fiddle and Guitar songwriting duo from Eastern Massachusetts, consists of Katy Boc and Todd Nickerson. Having met in 2014, Katy and Todd began writing songs together after discovering a mutual love for American roots music. It wasn't long before they began performing as a duo, featuring their original songs. Over the past year, Sparrow Blue has performed at venues such as the Spire Center for the Performing Arts, Club Passim, TOAD Cambridge, Atwoods Tavern, and Rockwood Music Hall. In November of 2015 they released their debut album, Mabel, which Red Line Roots called "a sweet rootsy sound that is clean and crisp as it displays hints of Americana goodness" and South Shore Living called "lilting, dark, and spellbindingly catchy". Disturbing the Peace: A Short History of the Protest Song

Saturday, October 14th @ 3:00 PM

Our exploration of folk music continues with a lecture by FOLK New England founder, Betsy Siggins, who will present a history of the protest song throughout the ages, accompanied by Rand Burket and Kathleen Healey, who will perform examples of this political art form. Betsy, a member of the folk music scene since 1958, who has worked at many folk organizations, such as Club Passim (previously Club 47) in Harvard Square, and has many friends in the folk field, will trace this type of music all the way back to the 1600s.

Rand Burkert is a folksinger, children's writer, and political and ecological activist living in Cape Cod. Last November, the morning after the presidential election, he took to the streets of Orleans, Massachusetts, to sing in protest – starting with "John Henry". Kathleen Healey is a hard-working musician & songwriter living on Cape Cod. She draws from her experience of living and raising a family near the beach for many of her songs. Some say salt water runs through her veins. She writes from the heart and her honest lyrics and often poignant subject matter lend themselves to the unique quality of her voice.

This lecture is part of our Royston Nash Music Appreciation Series, supported in part by the Arts Foundation of Cape Cod, the Mid Cape Cultural Council, and the Kirkman Trust.

Movie Screening: A Mighty Wind (PG-13)

Monday, October 16th @ 6:00 PM

In this mockumentary, three folk music groups meet up for a reunion concert put together by the son of all the bands' late manager. As the show draws closer, rising tensions may cause some issues for our wayward musicians, who have had some troubles over the years since they last played. Will they be able to get it all together in time for the big show?

A Mighty Wind movie screening is part of our Royston Nash Music Appreciation Series, supported in part by the Arts Foundation of Cape Cod, the Mid Cape Cultural Council, and the Kirkman Trust.

Cotuit Archaeology with Craig Chartier

Saturday, October 21st @ 2:00 PM

October is the month of Archaeology, and on International Archaeology Day Cotuit Library is pleased to host Craig Chartier as he talks about archaeology and Cotuit. Craig has worked on numerous projects on Cape Cod, and will show us how they relate to our lovely village of Cotuit. On a day when the world is taking a look back on its history, this is a program you don't want to miss!

Stargazing at Lowell Park

Tuesday, October 24th @ 6:30 PM

Join the folks from Cotuit Library as we turn our gazes skyward towards the stars! This is the first of several stargazing events we'll be holding for the summer months, and Cotuit Library has everything you need to participate! We have the telescopes, just bring yourself and your minds full of wonderment! (although all telescopes will be welcome!).

The rain date for this event is Wednesday, October 25th @ 6:30 PM.
